

An art university without walls

An art university without walls

14 Nordic & Baltic institutions joined forces and became one ambitious and exciting Nordplus network KUNO (Kunst Utdanninger i Norden).

Students and teachers have been given access to resources they may not find at their home institutions.

The network was established in 1993 starting with ten Nordic member institutions. Estonian, Lithuanian and Latvian art academies became members in 2005.

A corner stone of KUNO's work is student mobility, including both exchange periods of one or two semesters and express mobility which may last from one to four weeks. KUNO is well known and holds a distinct profile, both within the member institutions and in a wider European and international art educational context. Each year all member institutions open two of their courses to students from the network.

Connecting people

It is not unusual that students returning from express courses eventually connect teachers and professors, even though the main arena for the educators is the annual KUNO teacher's seminar. Network meetings bring people face to face and lead to mutual trust and understanding.

Kick off

The joint effort of six KUNO institutions has opened the door for nine MA-students in sound and art studies. The Nordic Sound Art kick off is the major event of the year.

The fact that Nordic Sound Art was conceived in 2005 only demonstrates that patience is a virtue, but it also shows that the network is heading steadily towards its aim of becoming an Art University Without Walls.

"Ich liebe dich trotz alles". Text on wall by Diana Pettersson, student at Valand School of Fine Arts, Göteborg University. [Photo: Diana Petterson] Denmark Estonia Finland Iceland Latvia Lithuania Norway Sweden

en

KUNO Secretariat

Kari Bjørgo Johnsen

KUNO Network coordinator

Bergen National Academy of the arts

Strømgaten 1

5015 Bergen

Norway

Project web: www.kuno.no

Email: kbj@khib.no

Mobile: +47 456 61 805

Phone: +47 55 58 73 21

Fax: +47 55 58 73 10